Farmers RECC Lights Up Christmas

Each year, Farmers RECC sponsors the “Lighting Up Christmas” program for a school in their service territory. The program, coordinated by the Events Team at Farmers RECC, gathers unwrapped toys and monetary donations for a school in their service territory to use for students in need.

The school chosen to receive donations in the 2015 Christmas season was Temple Hill Elementary School in Barren County.

Throughout the year, staff members at Temple Hill work with the Family Resource Office to identify families that might have a need for essential items like shoes, shirts, socks, coats and food.

During the 2015 ‘Lighting Up Christmas’ program, Farmers RECC employees and members donated nearly $1,500 to give to Temple Hill Elementary as well as several boxes of unwrapped toys, books and stuffed animals.

“We all know that Christmas can be a difficult time for some families in our area,” said Angela Hall, Chairman of the Events Team at Farmers RECC. “Our goal is to give back to the communities we serve and give students a special Christmas.”
